

"A Day In Vail" is part of the "Vail International DANCE Festival 2011." TANGO COLORADO, for the 3rd year, has been asked to participate in promoting awareness of Argentine Tango. Tango Colorado will host its August Milonga outdoors at Ford Park and teach a beginners class to festival dancers, participants and guests. Also preceding the milonga, a special master class will be taught by Natalia Hills and Alvaro Salas, who will also be performing Argentine Tango throughout the festival. Make a day of tango surrounded by the beauty of the Rockies and reunite with friends and members throughout Colorado.

Driving Directions and Parking:

Take exit 176 off I-70. Head south toward the ski mountain, into the main Vail roundabout. Exit the roundabout so you are heading east on South Frontage Road. The Vail Parking structure will be a short distance up on the right, where summer parking is free. Alternatively, you can continue on to the Ford Park parking lot, parking is usually free during the day, a fee is charged for arrivals to evening events. Allow two hours driving time to Vail from Denver, plus additional time to enjoy the drive, park and walk to the events.

For your comfort we recommend:

Sun screen, a wide brimmed hat, and plenty of water for daytime exploring around Vail.

Tango shoes or dance sneakers for the dance floor. An umbrella - just in case.

For lawn seating for the evening performances at the Gerald R. Ford Amphitheatre:

Arrive early and bring a picnic dinner to enjoy before the event! Concessions with food and alcohol sales are available at the theatre facility. Picnics and commercially sealed non-alcoholic beverages are permitted. For lawn seating (lawn chairs not permitted, folding stadium seats OK), bring a blanket and tarp or plastic sheeting for under the blanket, heavy jackets or parka for the evening, and umbrella – just in case.

"A Day in Vail" is an official TANGO COLORADO event in partnership with the "Vail International DANCE Festival 2011"

A wonderful opportunity to promote Argentine Tango and reunite with members throughout Colorado.
